

Welcome Molly, our office dog!

What kind of dog is Molly?

Molly is a Portuguese Water Dog. Her great-great-great grandparents worked alongside fisherman in Portugal retrieving nets and passing messages between boats. That means Molly will like to play in the water and will want to work hard. Molly is smart and friendly. When Molly grows up she will weigh about 40 pounds. She is a hair dog, which means that she won't leave hair all over the office and she won't make people sneeze.

How old is Molly?

Molly was born on December 19, 2008. She was brought back from Columbus, Ohio on Saturday, February 28, 2009 and showed up for her first day at Moore Pediatrics on Monday, March 2, 2009.

Does Molly live here?

Spending time at Moore Pediatrics and getting to know all the kids here is Molly's job. Molly will be here during the day Monday through Friday. At night and on the weekends, Dr. Moore takes her home to his house.

Can I pet her?

Not yet. Molly is not fully vaccinated and could still get very sick if she comes in contact with someone who has an infectious illness. Also, Molly still has a lot to learn about being a therapy dog. She has to learn the basics of potty training and good puppy manners, and then she will go to school to become a certified therapy dog.
